

Suburb Profile

City of Fremantle area

Hilton 6163

Hilton is bounded by South Street to the north, Stock Road to the east, Winterfold Road to the south and Carrington Street to the west. Of these boundaries, South Street, Carrington Street and Stock Road are all major roads.

Hilton was built after World War II on Fremantle Commonage, an area set aside for government purposes after the Swan River Colony was founded. Demand for housing was high after the war with both the return of service personnel and an influx of immigrants. Additionally, the suburb was intended to provide a local residential base for employees at the adjacent industrial development of O'Connor.

Named after the 'Hilton Park,' a reserve in the area, it was included in a list of postal districts submitted by the Postmaster General in May 1954. The Postal District was shown as 'Hilton park' until 1959 when it was agreed that the suffix 'Park' would no longer be used.
